Secure Your System Before You Travel

Summer is peak travel season—and an important time to ensure your home security system is ready before you leave town. Taking a few simple steps can go a long way in keeping your home protected while you're away.

- Confirm your system is armed and fully operational
- Review and update your emergency contact list
- Test your system before your trip
- Ensure you can access and manage your system through the BoydSMS™ app

A quick check today could help prevent major issues later. If you need assistance, our team is always here to help ensure your system is vacation-ready.

Security Measures That Stand the Test of Time

At Boyd & Associates, we've protected homes and businesses for over 50 years. While technology continues to evolve, the foundation of reliable security has always been built on the same key principles: consistency, visibility, and responsiveness.

Today's systems offer powerful tools—mobile control, video verification, smart automation—but these advancements are most effective when paired with time-tested security fundamentals. A professionally monitored alarm system, clearly displayed signage, secure locks, and strategically placed cameras still serve as the backbone of strong protection.

What sets Boyd apart is our commitment to combining the best of both worlds. Every system is backed by our UL-listed Monitoring Center, operated 24/7 by real, highly trained professionals—never outsourced, never automated. When your alarm goes off, a live expert is ready to respond in real time.

Trends may change, but peace of mind remains constant. At Boyd & Associates, we're proud to deliver security solutions that stand the test of time—trusted, proven, and always evolving to meet your needs.
